Description

Riga, the European city with Russian soul, is spread out in the creek of Daugava. It meets seven Baltic winds and gives a last haven to poets, romantics and all people tired of modern Europe's vanity and haste. Riga is a deliberate and soulful city. Here one can release from a wild race of metropolis and find peace and quiet. The soul of old Riga is in the historical center of the city. It is everywhere here - in the Doms Cathedral and the Powder tower, cosy cobble-stone streets and toylike houses with red roof tile. Here has settled a unique sample of architecture - five-storey mansion with a spirit of medieval Europe.

Sea air, walks along the Baltic coast and drawling calls of seagulls help to feel harmony in your soul. The best finishing of the evening can be found in a cosy calm cafe lost among narrow old streets.

A comfortable loft of 400 square meters. This suite with a nice view to the Riga quays and ancient buildings is a perfect place for excellent relaxation or fruitful work. Here modern trends of design and technology are smoothly found side by side with tiny details, which reproduce medieval Europe's life.
